OKLAHOMA IS FIRST OFF IN HAWAII AIR RACE

RACE NOW ON
ACROSS 2,420
MILES OF OCEAN

"EL ENCANTO" PILOTED BY GODDARD SNAPS LEFT WING

"LONE WOLF" OF GREAT CONTEST UNABLE TO LEAVE GROUND

Oakland Airport, Cal., Aug. 16.—(UP)—Five airplanes were headed over the Golden Gate and toward Hawaii at 12:45 P. M. today, of eight final entrants, the only ones successful in leaving Oakland Airport.

Three take-off attempts were unsuccessful, one resulting in a smash that completely destroyed the hopes of pilot and navigator to take part in the epochal James Dole air race.

The Michigan entry, "Miss Doran," returned to the field at 12:44 P. M. Auggy Pedlar, pilot, brought the ship to a safe landing.

Pedlar stepped from the "Miss Doran" and explained that his motor had been backfiring.

"We don't want to make the trip that way," he said. "The motor will have to be given a thorough going over before we start again."

"It's doubtful if we can get away again today," he added.

Irving's plane was returned to the head of the runway at 12:45 P. M.

Oakland Airport, Cal., Aug. 16.—The monoplane Oklahoma, with Bennett Griffin at the controls and Albert Henley in the navigator's seat, took off from the airport here at 12:01 Pacific standard time, starting the the great Dole race across 2,420 miles of ocean to Hawaii.

The silver monoplane "El Encanto," piloted by Norman A. Goddard, started next at 12:02 P. M. Pacific time. The ship was unable to leave the ground and rocked from side to side down the course of the runway. The left wing snapped in the middle. Neither Goddard nor his navigator, Kenneth Hawkins, was hurt.

Livingston Irving, "Lone Wolf" of the great contest, who was to fly alone, started down the runway in his monoplane "Pabco Pacific Flier" at 12:09 P. M.

He stopped one minute later. The plane was unable to leave the ground.

Irving left the pilot's seat and stood waiting by his plane for a tow car from the head of the runway. It was not known whether he would attempt another take-off. If he does, he will have to return to the end of the line again.

"The plane got away too quickly on me," he told a motorcycle patrolman. "I had to bring her down."

Other fliers behind Irving were nervously fidgeting about their planes. Griffin, who made the first and successful takeoff, meantime was flying over the Golden Gate and increasing his lead.

"I will start again as early as possible," Irving said. "I realize I'll have to wait until the others have started."

Goddard's automobile was driven from the starting point to his broken winged ship.

He drove the machine back himself.

Jack Frost, in the monoplane "Golden Eagle," started next on the great adventure.

Gordon Scott was with him as navigator.

His ship started down the long runway at 12:30 P. M. Pacific time. He was an even half hour behind Griffin. The "Golden Eagle" left the ground in a perfect take-off half a minute later.

Auggy Pedlar started immediately afterward with his monoplane "Miss Doran," at 12:31 1/2 P. M.

He left the ground one minute later.

Martin Jensen started his monoplane "Aloha" down the runway at 12:33 P. M. He left the ground two minutes later.

Miss Mildred Doran was in the Pedlar plane. It was announced at the take-off. The "Woolaroc," with Arthur Goebel at the controls, started next at 12:34 P. M. The fliers were crowding on each other's heels.

TEST OF SPEED AND STAMINA REQUIRED TO KEEP IN FLIGHT

AT NOON STARTER'S SIGNAL WILL BE GIVEN AT OAKLAND AIRPORT

Oakland Airport, Oakland, Cal., Aug. 16.—Nine brightly colored airplanes were rolled out to the runways this morning in preparation for the greatest air race of history—a test of speed and stamina which will end at the romantic Hawaiian Islands.

At noon the starter's signal will give the command for the getaway of the planes on the James Dole race between this airport and Honolulu, a 2,400 mile hop for prizes of $35,000.

Eighteen persons, including one woman, will be involved on this modern tour.

The planes all were reported in excellent condition for the thrilling air adventure this morning. All of the pilots have taken their craft into the air and all of them have been reported airworthy.

With all of the essence of luck the nine planes will spend about 22 hours in a thrilling dash over the rough Pacific ocean before the race is settled to the island of Oahu of the mid-Pacific group. Most of the fliers will head directly for Wheeler flying field just outside of Honolulu.

Two at least one of the fliers, Capt. William Erwin of Dallas, the flight will be the first leg of a world tour. He plans to go to Asia and thence around the world.

Miss Mildred Doran, pretty young school teacher from Michigan, will be the one woman in the adventurous flight across the broad span of the Pacific. She will be in the plane "Miss Doran," which will be piloted by Auggy Pedlar of Flint, Mich.

The girl was one of the most optimistic of the group as final preparations were made this morning for the flight. She said she could not understand how the flight could be a failure and said she was greatly thrilled at the thought of being the first woman to make the difficult air journey.

Pilots who are entered in the race, their planes and their navigators include:

Bennett Griffin, "Oklahoma," with Al Henley as navigator.

Martin Jensen, "Aloha," with Captain Paul Schuller as navigator.

Charles Quilam Parkhurst, "Air King," with Ralph C. Lowes, Jr., as pilot.

Arthur C. Goebel, "Woolaroc," with Lt. William A. Davis as navigator.

John W. "Jack" Front, "Golden Eagle," with Gordon Scott as navigator.

Norman Arthur Goddard, "El Encanto," with Kenneth C. Hawkins as navigator.

Capt. William P. Erwin, "Dallas Spirit," with Alvin Hanford Elchwaldt as navigator.

Maj. Livingston Gilson Irving, "Pacific Flier," flying alone.

John Auggy Pedlar in "Miss Doran," with Lieut. Vilas Knope as navigator. Miss Mildred Doran will accompany them.

GERMANS WAIT
FOR BETTER
WEATHER TO FLY

HAVE NOT DROPPED WESTWARD FLIGHT ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

BREMEN NOT DAMAGED BY ITS BATTLE WITH THE ELEMENTS

By ERIC KEYSER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Dessau, Germany, Aug. 16.—Junkers officials waited today for better weather before announcing plans for the next attempt to make the westward flight across the Atlantic.

Two Junkers planes were said to be ready, and it was believed that they would be sent down the runway as soon as charts show really favorable weather from Germany to the United States.

One of these planes is the Bremen, which like its sister ship, the Europa, was compelled by impossible weather conditions to abandon the first German attempt to fly across the Atlantic. It seemed to be none the worse for the rough handling by the elements during its 22 hour battle with wind, rain, fog, thunder and lightning, and needed only to be gone over and re-fueled before trying again.

The second plane is one which was held in reserve before the Europa and Bremen took off on Sunday. It was to have been used in case either of the other two developed trouble in taking off for the trans Atlantic flight.

Because of the nation-wide excitement over the departure of the Bremen and Europa and the subsequent disappointment over their failure to make the crossing, it was believed weather conditions would have to be all but perfect before another attempt is made.

Meanwhile, it became known that had the Bremen continued on its flight instead of returning, the aviators would almost certainly have met the fate of the French fliers Nungesser and Coll. For upon inspection of the fuel supply, it was learned that one half of it had been exhausted during the 1,600 mile flight, and one half of that distance was with a favorable west wind, whereas the flight across the Atlantic would have been against head winds most or all of the way.

Today's newspapers carried detailed accounts of the Bremen's flight and the German people were almost as proud of their airmen Friedrich Loose and Herman Koehle, as if the flight had been successful.

When high officials sought to ease the disappointment of the fliers by reminding them that they could not change the weather, Koehle replied: "Maybe that's true, but we were mighty foolish not to think of that before."

Koehle's remark led to the belief that the airmen knew when they took off Sunday that they would have hard going during at least the first stretch of the long journey.

"The fog was so thick at times that it was impossible for us in the plane to see one another's face and hands," he said.

"The densest fog extended from the water to more than a mile high."

"We were already four hours behind our schedule and about 40 miles out at sea off Ireland when I gnashed my teeth and gave the order to turn the ship around and return to Germany."

"It was five o'clock in the morning when I gave the orders to abandon the flight."

Until the Bremen landed at Dessau the crew was unaware that the Europa had preceded it there. They

TOM JOHNSON, LEADER OF LABOR PARTY, MOVES VOTE OF NO CONFIDENCE

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE IS READY TO SUPPORT ANY COALITION GOVERNMENT

By GEORGE MAC DONAGH

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Dublin, Aug. 16.—Tom Johnson, leader of the labor party in the Dail, today moved a vote of no confidence in the government of William T. Cosgrave. The motion was seconded by another member of the labor party.

President Cosgrave immediately obtained the floor and in a speech said he was ready to support any coalition government for the good of the country.

The text of Johnson's motion was: that the executive council has ceased to retain the support of the majority of the Dail.

He explained that the motion was designed to test the views of the Dail regarding the government continuing in office. The laborite alleged that Cosgrave had failed in his social and industrial program, and that whatever public confidence he retained had been lessened by the recent passage of the public safety act and the electoral amendment act.

SEEKS NEW TRIAL FOR TWO DEFENDANTS

STATES TRIAL JUDGE SHOULD HAVE PERMITTED OTHERS TO HEAR NEW TRIAL MOTION

ATTORNEY HILL CRITICIZES ADVISORY COMMITTEE NAMED BY GOVERNOR

By HENRY MINOTT

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Court House, Boston, Aug. 16.—Declaring that Judge Webster Thayer "is as much the defendant in this case as if he were in the dock," counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti told the Massachusetts supreme court today that if the issue of his alleged prejudice were tried out, there could be no question that the trial was a nullity.

In a stirring appeal designed to save the two condemned men from the electric chair one week hence Attorney Arthur D. Hill, legal chief of staff for the defense, asserted further that "no man can be a fair judge of his own prejudice, nor can any judge against whom there have been such accusations as those made against Judge Thayer, be fit to sit in judgment of a case."

For hours, the diminutive defense lawyer, immaculately dressed in a black cutaway, paced the floor before four state supreme court justices in a court room from which crowds had been turned away, and told why he believed Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti should have another trial.

Hill declared it was possible for a judge other than the trial judge to pass on motions relating to the case, and argued that Judge Thayer, because of his alleged prejudice, should have voluntarily withdrawn and permitted another justice to hear arguments on the motion for a new trial.

"When there is no right of appeal," Hill said, "the statutes are clearly unconstitutional."

"It cannot be that a defendant is worse off in the courts of Massachusetts than in England in the time of King John."

Hill criticized the advisory committee appointed by Governor Alvan T. Fuller in connection with the investigation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

"No commission constituted by feat of executive, no matter how eminent, can take the place of the court of the commonwealth," he said.

"No commission has the technical experience and knowledge of criminal trial procedure as have the judges. The president of a college or technical school, or even a prelate judge, is not competent to pass on this case. We have a right to expect justice in the courts."

"Fair trial," Hill went on, "means trial before an impartial judge and jury in an atmosphere free from prejudice."

He pointed to Judge Thayer's glowing tribute to the returning soldier and to his exhortation to the jury to do their duty "as the soldier boys did theirs."

"There is no complete protection in law," he said, "from a biased judge. The attitude of mind of the presiding justice is of vital importance to the atmosphere in which the case is tried."

"Of course, upon all questions of law it was open to the defendants before him (Judge Thayer) to take exception to his rulings, and many such exceptions were in fact taken, and have been passed upon and overruled by this court."

In closing his arguments on the writ of error, Hill pleaded with the court not to dwell on technicalities but to consider the broader aspects involved in the internationally-noted case.

When court adjourned for lunch at 1 P. M., the writ of error had not been filed, but it was said it might be filed later in the day.

Arguments were concluded at the

DYNAMITE BOMB
WRECKS HOME
OF BOSTON JUROR

Boston, Aug. 16.—(UP)—A dynamite bomb wrecked the home of Lewis McHardy, a juror at the Sacco-Vanzetti trial, in suburban East Milton early today.

McHardy and four other members of the family were hurled from their beds by the blast but all escaped serious injury.

Mr. and Mrs. McHardy and two sons, John, 29, and Theodore, 24, and a daughter, Helen, 32, were assisted from the wrecked building by neighbors who had been attracted to the scene by the terrific blast that caused houses to tremble for more than a mile around.

According to Police Chief James R. Travers of Milton the time bomb had been concealed beneath the front porch. Following the explosion, part of the mechanism of the internal machine was found on the front lawn.

BRING BACK TO
OLD HOME BODY

LATTER WAS RECOGNIZED AS
WORLD'S GREATEST STEEL
MASTER

FUNERAL RITES IN TOWN HE VISITED ONE YEAR AGO

Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 16.—(UP)—The body of Judge Elbert H. Gary, recognized as the world's greatest steel master, will be brought back to his own people for burial.

Just a scant year ago Judge Gary visited Wheaton—where he was raised and where he first became known as a good lawyer—and he chatted with the Rev. E. C. Lumden.

"This is the place to which I wish some day to be brought. This is the country where I was born and raised and where I want my bones to be laid when I am gone," Gary said.

Members of his family, saddened by the death of the master business man of America, recalled this statement and decided his body should be buried in a mausoleum on the side of the road leading out of Wheaton. The funeral will be on Thursday.

Judge Gary's body will be brought from New York on the Twentieth Century Limited and will be taken from Chicago to Wheaton on a special funeral train.

Judge Gary's body will be returned to the district where he first gained prominence. After having been graduated from Northwestern University he came here and started the practice of law.

He was the first mayor of Wheaton shortly after the town was incorporated. Later he became a county judge of Dupage county and thereby earned the name of "Judge Gary," a name that has followed him through his years of spectacular success as head of the United States Steel Corporation.

afternoon session and the case was put over until Friday for probable ruling.

Hill said the full bench must decide:

1. Whether, in view of the state of mind of Judge Thayer, as disclosed by the facts upon the record, the petitioners had such a trial and such consideration as subsequent proceedings as that to which they were entitled under the law and the constitutions of Massachusetts and of the United States.

2. Whether the question of Judge Thayer's own prejudice or any other question in the case could legally and constitutionally be decided by him.

3. If either or both of these questions be determined in favor of the petitioners, whether there is any legal remedy available to them in the two cases now before the court. This included the question whether a writ of error might now be brought to re-examine the case for any error in law or in fact, Hill said.

THREATENS LOSS RUNNING INTO THE MILLIONS

VAST INLAND SEA STRETCHES
OVER WESTERN AND SOUTH-
WESTERN KANSAS

ADDED RAIN CONTINUES FALL-ING LAST NIGHT AND TODAY

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 16.—(UP)—Muddy water charged a dozen Kansas towns and cities today, threatening to sweep through with resultant destruction running into millions of dollars. A vast inland sea stretched over western and southwestern Kansas, reaching out as far as the eye could see.

Added rain during the night continued falling today, bringing further anxiety to residents in towns along dozens of small streams. Farmers had quit the lowlands, hurriedly taking what property could be gathered in short order and leaving the rest to the wrath of the floods.

Crops in which the farmers had pinned high hopes were left in fields which had been turned into lakes. Corn was a total loss in many districts, with the farmers' hopes on his crop blasted.

Livestock suffered the greatest loss, hundreds of head of hogs, sheep, horses and cattle and hundreds of chickens being lost in the swirling angry waters of once peaceful little streams.

Salina faced possible flooding today, water backing up slowly from the Smoky Hill river. It was hoped however, that the rise would cease before reaching into the city. Backing up at a rate of an inch an hour during the night, the Smoky Hill had slowed its creeping march on the city a trifle this morning.

Cow creek and the Arkansas river swept into Hutchinson, covering an area ten blocks square. The area will spread further, it was reported. The most of the water is in the residential section of the city.

The Smoky Hill is rising rapidly above Mentor, endangering all property in that village. Nickerson, north of Hutchinson, is completely flooded and the population of 2,000 is reported fleeing to higher ground.

The Neosho is carrying added damage to a half dozen towns. Iola and Fort Scott were hit by the high water, with farmers in that vicinity having little of their farms left visible.

Marquette is completely surrounded, and it is feared few buildings of the city will be left undamaged by the water. Great Bend felt more water today after a part of the city had been covered yesterday. Holington was again cut off, the spur line of the Santa Fe which started running there yesterday being interrupted again.

Train service is at a standstill to a huge area. Track of the Missouri Pacific, the Santa Fe and the Union Pacific has been washed away, some of it being carried hundreds of feet away from the roadbed by the impact of the water. Trains into Kansas City from the west were from six to ten and twelve hours late, being routed to the north and down in order to get through.

Little hope for an immediate respite from the floods was held out today. The crest of the streams was expected to be reached in most regions today, but reports of recurring rains over almost the entire area held but little expectation of this.

The text of Johnson's motion was: that the executive council has ceased to retain the support of the majority of the Dail.

He explained that the motion was designed to test the views of the Dail regarding the government continuing in office. The laborite alleged that Cosgrave had failed in his social and industrial program, and that whatever public confidence he retained had been lessened by the recent passage of the public safety act and the electoral amendment act.

SEEKS NEW TRIAL FOR TWO DEFENDANTS

STATES TRIAL JUDGE SHOULD HAVE PERMITTED OTHERS TO HEAR NEW TRIAL MOTION

ATTORNEY HILL CRITICIZES ADVISORY COMMITTEE NAMED BY GOVERNOR

By HENRY MINOTT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Court House, Boston, Aug. 16.—Declaring that Judge Webster Thayer "is as much the defendant in this case as if he were in the dock," counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti told the Massachusetts supreme court today that if the issue of his alleged prejudice were tried out, there could be no question that the trial was a nullity.

In a stirring appeal designed to save the two condemned men from the electric chair one week hence Attorney Arthur D. Hill, legal chief of staff for the defense, asserted further that "no man can be a fair judge of his own prejudice, nor can any judge against whom there have been such accusations as those made against Judge Thayer, be fit to sit in judgment of a case."

For hours, the diminutive defense lawyer, immaculately dressed in a black cutaway, paced the floor before four state supreme court justices in a court room from which crowds had been turned away, and told why he believed Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti should have another trial.

Hill declared it was possible for a judge other than the trial judge to pass on motions relating to the case, and argued that Judge Thayer, because of his alleged prejudice, should have voluntarily withdrawn and permitted another justice to hear arguments on the motion for a new trial.

"When there is no right of appeal," Hill said, "the statutes are clearly unconstitutional."

"It cannot be that a defendant is worse off in the courts of Massachusetts than in England in the time of King John."

Hill criticized the advisory committee appointed by Governor Alvan T. Fuller in connection with the investigation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

"No commission constituted by feat of executive, no matter how eminent, can take the place of the court of the commonwealth," he said.

"No commission has the technical experience and knowledge of criminal trial procedure as have the judges. The president of a college or technical school, or even a probate judge, is not competent to pass on this case. We have a right to expect justice in the courts."

"Fair trial," Hill went on, "means trial before an impartial judge and jury in an atmosphere free from prejudice."

He pointed to Judge Thayer's glowing tribute to the returning soldier and to his exhortation to the jury to do their duty "as the soldier boys did theirs."

"There is no complete protection in law," he said, "from a biased judge. The attitude of mind of the presiding justice is of vital importance to the atmosphere in which the case is tried."

"Of course, upon all questions of law it was open to the defendants before him (Judge Thayer) to take exception to his rulings, and many such exceptions were in fact taken, and have been passed upon and overruled by this court."

In closing his arguments on the writ of error, Hill pleaded with the court not to dwell on technicalities but to consider the broader aspects involved in the internationally-noted case.

When court adjourned for lunch at 1 P. M., the writ of error had not been filed, but it was said it might be filed later in the day. Arguments were concluded at the

DYNAMITE BOMB WRECKS HOME OF BOSTON JUROR

Boston, Aug. 16.—(UP)—A dynamite bomb wrecked the home of Lewis McHardy, a juror at the Sacco-Vanzetti trial, in suburban East Milton early today.

McHardy and four other members of the family were hurled from their beds by the blast but all escaped serious injury.

Mr. and Mrs. McHardy and two sons, John, 29, and Theodore, 24, and a daughter, Helen, 32, were assisted from the wrecked building by neighbors who had been attracted to the scene by the terrific blast that caused houses to tremble for more than a mile around.

According to Police Chief James R. Travers of Milton the time bomb had been concealed beneath the front porch. Following the explosion, part of the mechanism of the internal machine was found on the front lawn.

BRING BACK TO OLD HOME BODY OF JUDGE GARY

LATTER WAS RECOGNIZED AS WORLD'S GREATEST STEEL MASTER

FUNERAL RITES IN TOWN HE VISITED ONE YEAR AGO

Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 16.—(UP)—The body of Judge Elbert H. Gary, recognized as the world's greatest steel master, will be brought back to his own people for burial.

Just a scant year ago Judge Gary visited Wheaton—where he was raised and where he first became known as a good lawyer—and he chatted with the Rev. E. C. Lumsden.

"This is the place to which I wish some day to be brought. This is the country where I was born and raised and where I want my bones to be laid when I am gone," Gary said.

Members of his family, saddened by the death of the master business man of America, recalled this statement and decided his body should be buried in a mausoleum on the side of the road leading out of Wheaton. The funeral will be on Thursday.

Judge Gary's body will be brought from New York on the Twentieth Century Limited and will be taken from Chicago to Wheaton on a special funeral train.

Judge Gary's body will be returned to the district where he first gained prominence. After having been graduated from Northwestern University he came here and started the practice of law.

He was the first mayor of Wheaton shortly after the town was incorporated. Later he became a county judge of Dupage county and thereby earned the name of "Judge Gary," a name that has followed him through his years of spectacular success as head of the United States Steel Corporation.

afternoon session and the case was put over until Friday for probable ruling.

Hill said the full bench must decide:

1. Whether, in view of the state of mind of Judge Thayer, as disclosed by the facts upon the record, the petitioners had such a trial and such consideration at subsequent proceedings as that to which they were entitled under the law and the constitutions of Massachusetts and of the United States.

2. Whether the question of Judge Thayer's own prejudice or any other question in the case could legally and constitutionally be decided by him.

3. If either or both of these questions be determined in favor of the petitioners, whether there is any legal remedy available to them in the two cases now before the court. This included the question whether a writ of error might now be brought to re-examine the case for any error in law or in fact, Hill said.

THREATENS LOSS RUNNING INTO THE MILLIONS

VAST INLAND SEA STRETCHES OVER WESTERN AND SOUTH-WESTERN KANSAS

ADDED RAIN CONTINUES FALLING LAST NIGHT AND TODAY

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 16.—(UP)—Muddy water charged a dozen Kansas towns and cities today, threatening to sweep through with resultant destruction running into millions of dollars. A vast inland sea stretched over western and southwestern Kansas, reaching out as far as the eye could see.

Added rain during the night continued falling today, bringing further anxiety to residents in towns along dozens of small streams. Farmers had quit the lowlands, hurriedly taking what property could be gathered in short order and leaving the rest to the wrath of the floods.

Crops in which the farmers had pinned high hopes were left in fields which had been turned into lakes. Corn was a total loss in many districts, with the farmers' hopes on his crop blasted.

Livestock suffered the greatest loss, hundreds of head of hogs, sheep, horses and cattle and hundreds of chickens being lost in the swirling angry waters of once peaceful little streams.

Salina faced possible flooding today, water backing up slowly from the Smoky Hill river. It was hoped however, that the rise would cease before reaching into the city. Backing up at a rate of an inch an hour during the night, the Smoky Hill had slowed its creeping march on the city a trifle this morning.

Cow creek and the Arkansas river swept into Hutchinson, covering an area ten blocks square. The area will spread further, it was reported. The most of the water is in the residential section of the city.

The Smoky Hill is rising rapidly above Mentor, endangering all property in that village. Nickerson, north of Hutchinson, is completely flooded and the population of 2,000 is reported fleeing to higher ground.

The Neosho is carrying added damage to a half dozen towns. Iola and Fort Scott were hit by the high water, with farmers in that vicinity having little of their farms left visible.

Marquette is completely surrounded, and it is feared few buildings of the city will be left undamaged by the water. Great Bend felt more water today after a part of the city had been covered yesterday. Holington was again cut off, the spur line of the Santa Fe which started running there yesterday being interrupted again.

Train service is at a standstill to a huge area. Track of the Missouri Pacific, the Santa Fe and the Union Pacific has been washed away, some of it being carried hundreds of feet away from the roadbed by the impact of the water. Trains into Kansas City from the west were from six to ten and twelve hours late, being routed to the north and down in order to get through.

Little hope for an immediate respite from the floods was held out today. The crest of the streams was expected to be reached in most regions today, but reports of recurring rains over almost the entire area held but little expectation of this.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS OF CLOTHES FOR THE STOUT

By HEDDA HOYT
New York, Aug. 16.—(UP)—The few stout women left in this dieting world find it difficult to buy smart clothes in large sizes. True, some houses specialize on "stout" dresses but even there are smarter garments in medium sizes.

There's one thing which the stout woman should remember when buying a gown—surplus flesh demands surplice bodice lines. When the large woman fails to cut down or her weight she must rely upon the cut of the gown for "slenderizing." Surplice front effects in bodices do much towards making one appear less round. The surplice is not necessarily a matronly style. For instance, the dress made with a surplice front which ties at one side without necessity the wearing of a vestee is most youthful. As a rule the bodice joins a pleated front tunic. More matronly are surplices with reserves and vestees which form a V shape as they join the tunic. The dress that isn't made on surplice lines may use a long strand of beads to aid in apparently dividing the breadth of the figure.

One-sided and V-shaped necklines are preferred to other types by women with matronly figures. One-piece frocks are also preferred above two-piece types in most instances. Diagonal skirt manipulation is used on many models which vary from the general vertical skirt effect. Tiers, flounces and any skirt trimming which tends to increase one's breadth are poor substitutes for vertical or diagonal lines.

Large women are getting away from wearing black to a great extent. Black and white effects, navy blues, beige, flesh and even white are said to be leading stout shades for summer. Printed materials are well liked by most large women, the prints usually being used with solid colors for contrast. The combination of two materials is also well liked. Lace and chiffon combinations add a softness which is flattering to plump figures.

issues, these amounted to a total of $5,300,000,000 or $1,350,000,000 more than during the first half of 1926. The refunding issues, amounting to $1,200,000,000 were twice as large as last year or the year before, and generally to a lower rate of interest than the securities they replaced. In the last four fiscal years, new issues have totalled $24,000,000,000, of which $4,000,000,000 was for foreign securities. Corporate issues during this period totalled $15,756,000,000.

CONFESSES BECAUSE HIS CONSCIENCE BOTHERED HIM

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 16.—(UP)—Because his conscience bothered him and he wanted to "tell the truth," Bernard McDonald, 23, confessed today to Sheriff Charles Schallitz that he, with Robert Wilnot and George Cooper, held up and robbed a bank in St. Paul, Minn., and escaped with $13,000.

The robbery is supposed to have taken place in May, 1925. McDonald was unable to give the name of the bank or the exact date of the holdup. Sheriff Schallitz immediately wired the police at St. Paul for further information. McDonald and Wilnot are being held at the county jail charged with being accessories before the fact in connection with several filling station holdups.

Cooper was said to be serving a sentence at the state penitentiary at Waupun.

HEDDA HOYT TELLS OF CLOTHES FOR THE STOUT

By HEDDA HOYT

New York, Aug. 16.—(UP)—The few stout women left in this dieting world find it difficult to buy smart clothes in large sizes. True, some houses specialize on "stout" dresses but even there are smarter garments in medium sizes.

There's one thing which the stout woman should remember when buying a gown—surplus flesh demands surplus bodice lines. When the large woman fails to cut down or her weight she must rely upon the cut of the gown for "slenderizing." Surplus front effects in bodices do much towards making one appear less rotund. The surplus is not necessarily a matronly style. For instance, the dress made with a surplus front which ties at one side without necessity, stating the wearing of a vestee is most youthful. As a rule the bodice joins a pleated front tunic. More matronly, are surpluses with reserves and vestees which form a V shape as they join the tunic. The dress that isn't made on surplus lines may use a long strand of beads to aid in apparently dividing the breadth of the figure.

One-sided and V-shaped necklines are preferred to other types by women with matronly figures. One-piece frocks are also preferred above two-piece types in most instances. Diagonal skirt manipulation is used on many models which vary from the general vertical skirt effect. Tiers, flounces and any skirt trimming which tends to increase one's breadth are poor substitutes for vertical or diagonal lines.

Large women are getting away from wearing black to a great extent. Black and white effects, navy blues, beige, flesh and even white are said to be leading stout shades for summer. Printed materials are well liked by most large women, the prints usually being used with solid color for contrast. The combination of two materials is also well liked. Lace and chiffon combinations add a softness which is flattering to plump figures.

issues, these amounted to a total of $5,300,000,000 or $1,350,000,000 more than during the first half of 1926. The refunding issues, amounting to $1,200,000,000 were twice as large as last year or the year before, and generally at a lower rate of interest than the securities they replaced. In the last four fiscal years, new issues have totalled $24,000,000,000, of which $4,000,000,000 was for foreign securities. Corporate issues during this period totalled $15,756,000,000.

INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION OF THE UNITED STATES

WALL STREET SIZES UP GARY SUCCESSOR

HAS WAITING LIST OF SEVEN
PROMINENT AMERI-
CANS

TO BE CHAIRMAN OF THE FIRST
"BILLION DOLLAR COR-PORATION"

New York, Aug. 16.—(UP)—Wall Street believes that the successor to Judge Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation who died yesterday, has already been selected.

It believes that the man who will be the next chairman of the country's first "billion dollar corporation" will be found in the following: Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania.

Former Governor Nathan Miller of New York, counsel for the corporation.

Dwight W. Morrow, of J. P. Morgan & Company.

Pierre S. Dupont, large stockholder in the steel corporation and chairman of General Motors.

James A. Farrell, president of the steel corporation.

Myron C. Taylor, member of the steel corporation's finance committee.

Orlando F. Weber, president of the Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation.

The name of President Coolidge was given prominent place in the speculation, but there seemed a definite report coming from Rapid City that Mr. Coolidge did not care for such a position; that he had other things in mind; and that he would not accept the place were it offered him.

Financiers believe that the steel directors long ago realized there would be a day when Judge Gary must either retire or leave as he did—dying with his hands still on the helm. Realizing that, it was generally believed, a selection was made of a successor and what remains to be done is merely to make the selection official.

QUESTION FOUR IN CONNECTION WITH MURDER CASES

St. Paul, Aug. 16.—(UP)—Two men and two women today were being questioned by police in connection with the murders of Mr. and Mrs. James Barrett and Mrs. Lillian Kooser here last week.

Those held for questioning are Tommy Barone, said by police to be a gunman, his wife, Edith Barone, Al Kechie, Springfield, Minn., and Mary Foster.

They were arrested in a raid on an apartment house here by two squads of detectives Monday night. They surrendered without resistance.

Mrs. Barrett and Mrs. Kooser were found shot to death in the bedroom of the Barrett home here last Wednesday. Barrett's corpse was found in a desolate location on the outskirts of the city, Sunday afternoon.

I REMEMBER now how my friends used to tell me about Prince Albert; how they would make what sounded like the most extravagant claims for it; and how I would say "Uh-huh," and proceed to fill my pipe from the same old package. I just didn't know!

But I found out. One day, the store where I buy my tobacco didn't have my old brand. I heard another customer standing beside me say "Prince Albert" to the man behind the counter. All that I had heard about Prince Albert came back to me in a flash.

I bought a tin. "Took a chance," as I thought. As I opened it, I was met by the most inviting fragrance I had ever known. I thought of the woods after a gentle rain. It made my mouth water for a taste of such tobacco in my pipe. I tamped-in a load and lighted up.

What a taste! Cool and sweet and mild, with just enough body to make every puff a smoke-experience. I tried another load—and another. I was "sold." P.A. was my brand from then on. My only regret is that I didn't make the discovery sooner. Good old P.A.!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

THE PROPOSED FARM RELIEF BILL

WITH the McNary-Haugen bill shelved by the president's veto, we wondered what substitute we were to get to cure the ills of agriculture and to revive the basic industry of the nation.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger gives an illuminating resume of the proposed farm relief bill to be sanctioned by the administration.

Since last March the advisers of the Coolidge administration have been working on a farm relief program. This problem has had the attention of the cabinet and the president. Secretaries Jardine and Hoover have given much time to it. The intention has been to reach some sound compromise with the more reasonable advocates of the McNary-Haugen bill.

The result of all this work appears in the proposed farm relief bill made public in the Black Hills. This measure seeks to protect the interests of the consumer and to keep the government out of the actual buying and selling of the crop surplus. Where the McNary-Haugen bill would use Federal funds in buying up surplus production and selling this abroad at a loss, the new bill would finance the crop reserves and store commodities until the market might absorb them.

Storage and financing are sound business practices. Buying and "dumping" at a loss can hardly be called good business.

The new measure is a revised version of the Fess bill of 1926. It is more liberal in its credit and loan provision than was the Fess plan, which was defeated after the McNary-Haugen bill had been rejected by congress. Summarized its main provisions are:

An appropriation of $300,000,000 to be used as revolving fund * * * The encouragement of crop-pooling and co-operative marketing * * * Control of crop production through advisory boards, a Federal farm board and by the use of world information concerning crop prospects and foodstuffs needs. * * * The Federal farm board, aided by commodity advisory boards, to check price fluctuations crops.

Under this bill, where prices are fixed, they will warehouses and the advance of money on warehouse and aid in stabilization * * * The building of storage be fixed by farm organizations and not by a Federal agency. On certain of the boards the public will be represented. Whether or not the bill has the president's approval is not known. It does, however, represent a compromise between McNary-Haugenism and the opposition to price-fixing and the administration has favored a compromise.

It includes nearly all the more forward-looking proposals that have been urged for a distressed agriculture.

In its present form it will offer a test of farm and public sentiment. While it follows the main lines of the Fess bill of a year or more ago, its credit provisions are much more liberal. Undoubtedly it goes about as far toward direct farm relief as the administration is prepared to go. It may offer the one chance to enact farm relief legislation before the campaign of 1928.

The president is on record against the McNary-Haugen bill. His veto message described this bill and its "equalization fee" as not only unconstitutional but unwise and even dangerous. It is doubtful if a two-thirds majority for that measure can be found in the coming congress.

Advocates of McNary-Haugenism have held out for their bill "or nothing." The chances are that unless they do accept some such compromise as that in the measure made public at Rapid City, they will get "nothing."

If the farmer is thinking more of relief than he is of politics, the new proposals will have his serious consideration and may be given a trial. However, if there is more of politics than there is of farm relief in this agricultural agitation, the compromise measure will be rejected.

SUPER-SALESWOMAN'S LAWS

THE Psychology Magazine says the highest paid saleswoman in the United States, Blanche Granville Green, attributes her spectacular rise, which recently attracted so much attention throughout the country, to the ten commandments for success that she has always followed.

Mrs. Green, the woman with the million dollar smile, is sales-manager and vice president of Berger Brother Company, New Haven, Conn. In fifteen years she has made a fortune running into six figures and has brought to her firm an unusual turnover of several millions.

Her ten commandments are:

1. Be enthusiastic.
2. Have an objective, in life, and in selling work for it and toward it.
3. Banish fear. It will destroy every opportunity for success.
4. Maintain an interest in your prospect.
5. Have confidence in yourself, your merchandise, and your organization.
6. Command respect, even in seeming defeat.
7. Say the right thing in the right way.
8. Give full measure of good cheer.
9. Be mindful of little things.
10. Persevere. Don't let go!

IN unwise dieting, carried on without consulting your family doctor, you sometimes lose bulk at the expense of your nervous system. We'd rather be a jolly fat boy than a skinny, nervous wreck.

WE know one man, a non-gardener, who when his wife was away, cooked up a mess of supposed onions. When she came back she was horrified to find he had made away with her gladioli bulbs.

GROVE PATTERSON says it is easy to inherit a good name. No credit is due any young man for that. But keeping a good name calls for a pretty steady program of judgment and self-control.

SYNOPSIS
In old France, the Chevalier Fabien des Grieux, a youth as handsome as good, awaits the Paris coach which will carry him to St. Sulpice, where he will train for the priesthood. Meanwhile, on the lumbering diligence as it nears Amiens, rides a beautiful young orphan, Manon Lescaut, being taken to a convent by her only relative, a brother, who doesn't want to be bothered with her; but who, seeing rich Comte de Ravolet, a connoisseur of women, feasting his eyes upon her, suddenly realizes her worldly value, and proposes a stay overnight at an inn.

"I would love to, brother dear," I suppose the convent will be all right but I hate the thought of wearing coarse, drab convent clothing." Manon bent over and kissed her brother's hand as if ashamed of her objection to this fine thing he was doing for her.

The two men looked at each other over the girl's bent head. The Comte nodded gratefully. Lescaut was glad that the wealthy man understood why Manon was to remain at the inn over night. He, also, secretly felt that it was just as well for Manon to have expressed a hatred for ugly attire—the Comte might have the privilege of gawking her as extravagantly as he desired—provided, of course, he paid for the right.

As the diligence neared the White Horse Inn, the man on the box raised the great coach horn to his lips and blew a long and loud blast. The footman jumped off and, waving aside the waiting students, opened the door with a flourish.

Lescaut alighted first and swaggered on toward the courtyard, utterly ignoring his sister. Comte

Fabien stared at Manon, fascinated as though she were some being from another world.

De Ravolet stepped out next and gallantly turned to assist Manon from the diligence as though she belonged to him.

"Permit me, my dear!" She flushed with annoyance and scarcely touched his extended wrist as she stepped daintily to the ground.

The students watched her admiringly, but she appeared not to notice them, and they began piling into the diligence with their portmanteaux. From here they were to journey on to St. Sulpice and complete their final training as priests.

There was just a touch of pathos in the honest admiration these young men showed for Manon. Youths going away to be priests. But Manon was destined for the Convent. There was little or no difference—just youth giving up everything for something it thought was very much worth while, peaceful and satisfying.

Lescaut turned back and joined the Comte familiarly. They wound their way through the groups of students in the courtyard, leaving Manon to follow toward the inn as best she could, alone.

Within the tavern the lay brother was still talking earnestly to Fabien des Grieux, who listened attentively and nodded his head—the charm against worldly evil sent to him by the Bishop.

"My son, the diligence has arrived. You must be on your way." "Yes, Father, I am ready," Fabien replied and warmly grasping the holy one's hand he turned toward the door.

"Before you go, I want to say that you are about to enter upon a new life—a richer, deeper life than you have hitherto known—our blessings go with you!"

"I am grateful to you all," Fabien hurried toward the door, forgetting his portmanteau.

The diligence horn was sounding the signal for departure and Fabien was eager to speak with his friend Tiberge before starting. As he neared the door he almost collided with Lescaut and the Comte who, engaged in close conversation, tion, were entering the inn arm in arm. They did not notice the young student and Fabien impatiently stood aside until they had entered. As he again turned toward the entrance Manon appeared.

Feeling strange and rather lost, Manon glanced up timidly wondering if some one had come to help her. Then when she saw Fabien's face she stood still and leaned against the door frame for support. One hand went quickly to her throat and she pressed hard to stifle the cry of happy fulfillment that came from her heart.

But Fabien did not notice her and walked on.

As young Manon was, she realized that she had always been waiting for some one, and that someone was the young student, priest who just passed without seeing her!

Suddenly Fabien stopped—remembering that he had forgotten his portmanteau. Or perhaps he felt the power of Manon's need as she stood there looking at him. At any rate he turned and their eyes met!

Fabien stared at Manon, fascinated as though she were some being from another world.

"Oh, my dear, my DEAR!" And he took a step toward her. His lips were parched. His throat was dry. Something greater than himself clutched his whole being.

Manon gazed at Fabien, breathlessly. Her eyes were big and luminous and her lips finally parted to say—without her knowing it—"I am so happy that you have come—I was lonely!"

Manon appeared so extremely beautiful that for the first time in his life Fabien appreciated the difference between men and women. Up until now his chaste conduct had been the theme of universal admiration among his associates.

He underwent a change that deprived him of all reason and self control when he looked upon this girl for the first time. His excessive timidity left him and without the slightest hesitation he advanced toward Manon, who in a moment had become the mistress of his heart and destiny. His fingers, that so reverently held the little charm against worldly evil, opened—and the Bishop's medal fell unnoticed to the floor. Fabien stood before Manon in ardent admiration.

"What has brought you to Amiens?" he inquired breathlessly. "My brother has travelled here with me so that I may commence my novitiate for taking the veil at the Convent." Manon did not take her eyes from the youth's face as she replied.

Fabien heard in this announcement a death blow to his hopes. Love had so quickened his understanding that he seemed to be another person.

"Have you any acquaintances in the town?"

"No, I shall be here entirely as a stranger when my brother returns to Paris."

The departing diligence signal and voices of the students suddenly penetrated through their consciousness. For a few blessed moments they had not known that any one else lived.

Almost dazed, Fabien feasted his eyes upon Manon's delicate beauty. It was his promised duty to go away!

Chancing to see something brought on the floor, Manon picked up Fabien's forgotten medal and held it in her hand. He saw that it was his and mechanically extended his hand for the little charm. As their hands touched a thrill passed through them, a thrill that frightened and bewildered because they had never experienced the stimulating influence of association with anyone of the opposite sex.

With a small startled gasp, Manon pulled her hand from Fabien's and started for the interior of the inn.

NINTH FEDERAL RESERVE DISTRICT CROP STATISTICS

Minneapolis, Aug. 16.—(UP)—Should present prices prevail and the crop yield as large a harvest as forecasted on August 1, the cash income from wheat, rye, flax, and potatoes in the ninth federal reserve district will total approximately $444,000,000, the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis reported today. The total would about equal the cash income from the 1924 crop, it was stated.

In its report on agricultural conditions in the district during the month of July the bank stated that rust damage to oats has been severe in Minnesota and South Dakota.

"The cool weather since July 29 has been unfavorable for the development of rust, but has also retarded the growth of corn," the report stated.

Although early sown wheat apparently escaped with but small damage late sown grain was reported injured in areas scattered throughout the district due to the unusually long planting season.

"Crop prospects in Montana and the portion of Wisconsin included in this district are excellent," the bank reported.

The income from dairy products in July was reported larger than during the same period last year while livestock marketings decreased.

The bank reported that business in this district during July was on a lower level than a year ago. Debts to individual accounts were four per cent smaller and carloadings of freight in the three weeks ending July 23 were six per cent smaller than in the corresponding period last year, the report stated.

St. Paul, Aug. 16.—(UP)—Heavy rains, reported general throughout the northwest today, will prove of inestimable value to the farm territories. Andrew Boss, agronomist at the agricultural school of the University of Minnesota predicted today.

A spell of warm weather following the rain will greatly enhance possibility of a good corn crop despite its backward condition to date, Prof. Boss stated.

"If the northwest has plenty of sunshine and another good rain in the next two or three weeks, the corn crop will be much better than we expected," he declared.

"The rainfall also will make possible more and bigger potatoes, especially in the Red River valley district," Prof. Boss stated.

J. OGDEN ARMOUR, CHICAGO PACKER, DIES IN LONDON

Chicago, Aug. 16.—(UP)—J. Ogden Armour, head of the vast Armour packing interests, died today in London, his offices in Chicago announced this afternoon.

Armour, whose career in the packing business and financial organizations in the middle west has been spectacular ever since he came to the head of the firm which has fathered, has been ill for several weeks in London.

He was suffering from typhoid fever with complications, the exact nature of which his office was uncertain.

Not only was Armour interested in the Armour Packing company, one of the largest if not the very largest institutions of its kind in the world, but he was also head of the Armour Grain company, although operations of the latter firm were handled by other men.

Several years ago, under the pressure of post-war economic conditions, Armour's interests were for a time threatened with almost complete annihilation. But after a prolonged period of financing on a scale almost without precedent, the Armour family held security to its vast holdings and emerged from the financial tempest in full command of the properties.

J. Ogden Armour was born Nov. 11, 1863, in Cincinnati. He moved with his parents to Chicago in 1875. He attended Yale university two years and then was recalled from college by his father, the late Phillip D. Armour, to learn the packing business.

In 1884 Ogden became a member of the firm and in 1901, became president. He remained as president and active head of the firm until 1922 when he became chairman of the board of directors.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Lolita Armour Mitchell, wife of John J. Mitchell, Jr. The Mitchells went to London recently when Armour's condition became serious.

No Substitute for Salt

Next to iron the substance most valuable to man is probably salt. Apart from its use as a condiment, salt is essential for preserving foods, and as an antiseptic. Salt, being found even in the blood, seems essential to the health and well-being of man, and without it the human race would probably perish.

Courtship Record in '90s

Roy Tucker, a Fulton (Mo.) young man, bet he could take 50 girls buggy riding on 50 consecutive nights and collect a lock of hair from each one. This was back in the gay '90s. He won the bet, but found the quest so pleasant that he kept on until he had 100. Amid a collection of 1,200 other antiques he now has these trophies neatly mounted. At this curl-collecting period Tucker was a student at Westminster college. There was a time limit to the wager and for several hours Tucker seemed doomed to defeat. All the girls were "dated up." But Tucker had a happy thought. He took his sister out riding and got a lock of hair from her.—Capper's Weekly.

Wilson's Peace Points

The fourteen points that President Wilson offered in a speech before congress on January 8, 1918, as essential in any consideration of peace with the central powers, were: Open diplomacy, freedom of the seas, equality of trade conditions, reduction of armaments, adjustment of colonial claims, settlements of Russian questions, evacuation and restoration of invaded French territory and return of Alsace-Lorraine to France, readjustment of Italian frontiers, free development of the peoples of Austria-Hungary, determination of the relations of the Balkan states, settlement of the Turkish question, an independent Poland, and the formation of a league of nations.

The Kickers Organize

A self-styled Society of Kickers has instituted itself in Paris, its object being that members shall growl and kick when prices appear to be too high for their tastes or pocketbooks. This will not bring the high cost of living down. There is only one thing that will and that is for purchasers to abstain from buying anything but necessities. A Paris shopkeeper specialist has evidently anticipated this as he is advertising "necessity luxuries." What are they? Well, for the French they are bathtubs and first class seats in express trains as all who ever tried to ride third class in France will know.

New Metal Alloy

Harder than steel or softer than lead, according to the way it is made, is a new alloy reported in Popular Science Monthly. It was discovered by T. D. Kelly, London chemist, who calls it solium, and declares it to be impervious to powerful acids. It may replace platinum, he says, wherever that costly metal is used in industry because of its resistance to oxidation and corrosion. The alloy is prepared from oxides and earth metals.

THE PROPOSED FARM RELIEF BILL

WITH the McNary-Haugen bill shelved by the president's veto, we wondered what substitute we were to get to cure the ills of agriculture and to revive the basic industry of the nation.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger gives an illuminating resume of the proposed farm relief bill to be sanctioned by the administration.

Since last March the advisers of the Coolidge administration have been working on a farm relief program. This problem has had the attention of the cabinet and the president. Secretaries Jardine and Hoover have given much time to it. The intention has been to reach some sound compromise with the more reasonable advocates of the McNary-Haugen bill.

The result of all this work appears in the proposed farm relief bill made public in the Black Hills. This measure seeks to protect the interests of the consumer and to keep the government out of the actual buying and selling of the crop surplus. Where the McNary-Haugen bill would use Federal funds in buying up surplus production and selling this abroad at a loss, the new bill would finance the crop reserves and store commodities until the market might absorb them.

Storage and financing are sound business practices. Buying and "dumping" at a loss can hardly be called good business.

The new measure is a revised version of the Fess bill of 1926. It is more liberal in its credit and loan provision than was the Fess plan, which was defeated after the McNary-Haugen bill had been rejected by congress. Summarized its main provisions are:

An appropriation of $300,000,000 to be used as revolving fund * * * The encouragement of crop-pooling and co-operative marketing * * * Control of crop production through advisory boards, a Federal farm board and by the use of world information concerning crop prospects and foodstuffs needs. * * * The Federal farm board, aided by commodity advisory boards, to check price fluctuations crops.

Under this bill, where prices are fixed, they will warehouses and the advance of money on warehouse and aid in stabilization * * * The building of storage be fixed by farm organizations and not by a Federal agency. On certain of the boards the public will be represented. Whether or not the bill has the president's approval is not known. It does, however, represent a compromise between McNary-Haugenism and the opposition to price-fixing and the administration has favored a compromise.

It includes nearly all the more forward-looking proposals that have been urged for a distressed agriculture.

In its present form it will offer a test of farm and public sentiment. While it follows the main lines of the Fess bill of a year or more ago, its credit provisions are much more liberal. Undoubtedly it goes about as far toward direct farm relief as the administration is prepared to go. It may offer the one chance to enact farm relief legislation before the campaign of 1928.

The president is on record against the McNary-Haugen bill. His veto message described this bill and its "equalization fee" as not only unconstitutional but unwise and even dangerous. It is doubtful if a two-thirds majority for that measure can be found in the coming congress.

Advocates of McNary-Haugenism have held out for their bill "or nothing." The chances are that unless they do accept some such compromise as that in the measure made public at Rapid City, they will get "nothing."

If the farmer is thinking more of relief than he is of politics, the new proposals will have his serious consideration and may be given a trial. However, if there is more of politics than there is of farm relief in this agricultural agitation, the compromise measure will be rejected.

The bank reported that business in this district during July was on a lower level than a year ago. Debts to individual accounts were four per cent smaller and carloadings of freight in the three weeks ending July 23 were six per cent smaller than in the corresponding period last year, the report stated.

St. Paul, Aug. 16.—(UP)—Heavy rains, reported general throughout the northwest today, will prove of incalculable value to the farm territories. Andrew Boss, agronomist at the agricultural school of the University of Minnesota predicted today.

A spell of warm weather following the rain will greatly enhance possibility of a good corn crop despite its backward condition to date, Prof. Boss stated.

"If the northwest has plenty of sunshine and another good rain in the next two or three weeks, the corn crop will be much better than we expected," he declared.

"The rainfall also will make possible more and bigger potatoes, especially in the Red River valley district," Prof. Boss stated.

SEEK TO INITIATE JOINT PASSENGER SERVICE IN STATE

Washington, Aug. 16.—(UP)—The application of the Northern Pacific, the Minneapolis and St. Paul and the Soo railroad to initiate joint passenger service between Duluth, Superior and the Twin Cities and to divide earnings therefrom was set for hearing Sept. 27 in Minneapolis before examiner Brennan, by the interstate commerce commission today.

J. OGDEN ARMOUR, CHICAGO PACKER, DIES IN LONDON

Chicago, Aug. 16.—(UP)—J. Ogden Armour, head of the vast Armour packing interests, died today in London, his offices in Chicago announced this afternoon.

Armour, whose career in the packing business and financial organizations in the middle west has been spectacular ever since he came to the head of the firm which has fathered, has been ill for several weeks in London.

He was suffering from typhoid fever with complications, the exact nature of which his office was uncertain.

Not only was Armour interested in the Armour Packing company, one of the largest if not the very largest institutions of its kind in the world, but he was also head of the Armour Grain company, although operations of the latter firm were handled by other men.

Several years ago, under the pressure of post-war economic conditions, Armour's interests were for a time threatened with almost complete annihilation. But after a prolonged period of financing on a scale almost without precedent, the Armour family held security to its vast holdings and emerged from the financial tempest in full command of the properties.

J. Ogden Armour was born Nov. 11, 1863, in Cincinnati. He moved with his parents to Chicago in 1875.

He attended Yale university two years and then was recalled from college by his father, the late Philip D. Armour, to learn the packing business.

In 1884 Ogden became a member of the firm and in 1901, became president. He remained as president and active head of the firm until 1922 when he became chairman of the board of directors.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Lolita Armour Mitchell, wife of John J. Mitchell, Jr. The Mitchells went to London recently when Armour's condition became serious.

TWO MORE GO ON BREAD AND WATER DIET

Tekamah, Neb., Aug. 16.—(UP)—Two more victims of Judge Orville Chitt's bread and water magistrate sentences are under 60-day jail terms, alternate 10-day periods to be on the limited fare.

Charles Hampton and Claude Cline, both convicted of liquor law violations, were to start serving their terms today, the first 10 days to be on bread and water, the second 10 on regular fare and alternately in this order until they are set free.

No Substitute for Salt

Next to iron the substance most valuable to man is probably salt. Apart from its use as a condiment, salt is essential for preserving foods, and as an antiseptic. Salt, being found even in the blood, seems essential to the health and well-being of man, and without it the human race would probably perish.

Courtship Record in '90s

Roy Tucker, a Fulton (Mo.) young man, bet he could take 50 girls buggy riding on 50 consecutive nights and collect a lock of hair from each one. This was back in the gay '90s. He won the bet, but found the quest so pleasant that he kept on until he had 100. Amid a collection of 1,200 other antiques he now has these trophies neatly mounted. At this curlicue period Tucker was a student at Westminster college. There was a time limit to the wager and for several hours Tucker seemed doomed to defeat. All the girls were "dated up." But Tucker had a happy thought. He took his sister out riding and got a lock of hair from her.—Capper's Weekly.

Wilson's Peace Points

The fourteen points that President Wilson offered in a speech before congress on January 8, 1918, as essential in any consideration of peace with the central powers, were: Open diplomacy, freedom of the seas, equality of trade conditions, reduction of armaments, adjustment of colonial claims, settlements of Russian questions, evacuation and restoration of invaded French territory and return of Alsace-Lorraine to France, readjustment of Italian frontiers, free development of the peoples of Austria-Hungary, determination of the relations of the Balkan states, settlement of the Turkish question, an independent Poland, and the formation of a league of nations.

The Kickers Organize

A self-styled Society of Kickers has instituted itself in Paris, its object being that members shall growl and kick when prices appear to be too high for their tastes or pocketbooks. This will not bring the high cost of living down. There is only one thing that will and that is for purchasers to abstain from buying anything but necessities. A Paris shopkeeper specialist has evidently anticipated this as he is advertising "necessity luxuries." What are they? Well, for the French they are bathtubs and first class seats in express trains as all who ever tried to ride third class in France will know.

New Metal Alloy

Harder than steel or softer than lead, according to the way it is made, is a new alloy reported in Popular Science Monthly. It was discovered by T. D. Kelly, London chemist, who calls it solium, and declares it to be impervious to powerful acids. It may replace platinum, he says, wherever that costly metal is used in industry because of its resistance to oxidation and corrosion. The alloy is prepared from oxides and earth metals.

Jarboe's relief work brought victory to the N. E. team.

The battle was featured by thrills and the result was in doubt until the last man was out.

GODFREY KNOCKS OUT MALONEY

ONE OF BIGGEST UPSETS OF YEAR IN HEAVYWEIGHT DIVISION

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 16.—(UP)—One of the biggest upsets of the year in the heavyweight division came last night when George Godfrey knocked out Jim Maloney, after one minute and 25 seconds of the first round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Godfrey weighed 233 pounds and Maloney 202.

The negro delivered the knockout with a right to the jaw. Maloney was out for two minutes.

Maloney started off fast and stung Godfrey with a hard left at the opening of the bout. Godfrey weathered the attack and put over the blow that brought his man down a moment later.

ALL-AMERICAN HALFBACK OF 1923 IN CITY YESTERDAY

FORMER MINNESOTA CAPTAIN ENTERS FOURTH YEAR AS COACH AT KALAMAZOO

MIKE GARY WANTED TO SEE JOESTING BUT OWATONNA BOY IS ON CANOE TRIP

Earl Martineau, All-American halfback and captain of the 1923 Minnesota football eleven, who is spending part of his summer vacation in the Brainerd Lake Region, was in Brainerd with his wife and other relatives yesterday, motoring down from his camp.

Martineau will remain in this section. It is learned, until the practice season opens at Western State Normal at Kalamazoo, Mich. He will be serving his fourth year as head football coach at the Michigan institution, having taken the position immediately following his graduation at Minnesota in the spring of 1924.

The former Gopher triple threat at a recent visit in Minneapolis expressed himself as being pleased with the many improvements in the Minnesota athletic plant since he played under the colors of the Maroon and Gold. He captained the Gopher eleven in the last homecoming game played on old Northrup field in the fall of 1923 when Minnesota defeated Iowa, 20 to 7.

Mike Gary Here
Mike Gary, Minnesota star lineman and All-Western tackle last fall, motored from Minneapolis over the week-end to see Herb Joesting at Camp Lincoln for Boys. Gary was disappointed because he could not talk over plans for next fall as Joesting had not returned from his canoe trip in the Canadian wilds.

BOSTON BRAVES AND PHILLIES IN BOTTOM RUNG BATTLE

BRAVES WON IN 10TH INNING BY SCORE OF 12 TO 11

(By UNITED PRESS)
Only one game featured the major league baseball race Monday and that was between the Boston Braves and the Phillies. It was an intense bottom rung battle and the Braves won in the tenth inning 12-11. The Phillies managed to get 15 hits while the Braves hit 17 times.

Kansas City, Mo.—Davis held Toledo to five hits while Kansas City was counting a run for each of its six safe blows and the Blues took one from the league leaders 6-1. The Blues drove Palermo from the mound with four runs in the eighth.

Louisville, Ky.—Minneapolis had to take an extra inning to win the first game of a twin bill from Louisville, 5-4. The Colonels took the second game 7 to 3 by getting an early lead. Acosta, center fielder or Louisville was taken to a hospital with a fractured skull after he had been hit by a pitched ball.

Columbus, O.—Milwaukee barely squeezed in an extra run to win from Columbus, despite the fourteen hits of the Brewers. The score was 4 to 3. Dennison scattered the eight Senator hits.

SELECTING BRITISH POLO MATCH PLAYERS

TO MEET UNITED STATES AT MEADOWBROOK ON SEPT. 5

IN FIRST OF INTERNATIONAL MATCHES FOR INTERNATIONAL CHALLENGE CUP

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 16.—Selection of the British polo team which will meet the United States at Meadowbrook Sept. 5 in the first of the international matches for the international challenge cup today was causing a stir in some quarters much as the announcement of the American line-up did recently.

The British team as announced officially by Colonel Commandant W. A. Tomkinson follows:

1. Captain C. E. Pert.
2. Major A. H. Williams.
3. Captain C. T. I. Roark.
- Back—Major E. G. Atkinson.

The reserves are Captain Richard George, Captain John P. Denning and Lieut. H. P. Guinness.

Criticism of the make-up of the British team comes as a result of placing Captain Roark, the hard-hitting, hard-riding Irishman, at No. 3 instead of No. 2.

Captain Roark, recognized as the best of the British players, had been considered a certain choice for No. 2, where most of the riding and free hitting is done.

The omission of J. Watson Webb and Malcolm Stevenson, veteran internationalists, from the U. S. team caused dissatisfaction in many quarters when the personnel of the team was announced.

The U. S. line-up will be:
1. Winston Guest.
2. Tommy Hitchcock.
3. Chever Cowdin.
Back—Devereaux Milburn.

"KING BEN" RESUMES HIS TESTIMONY

BROUGHT INTO THE ST. JOSEPH
COURT ROOM ON A STRETCHER

PROSECUTOR QUESTIONS HIM
REGARDING HIS FIRST
MARRIAGE

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 16.—(UP)—Smiling wanly "King Ben" Purnell resumed testimony in the House of David dissolution suit today.

He was brought into court on a stretcher and seemed even weaker than at the other two times he has appeared in court. He said he felt weaker but expected to be able to complete his testimony and motioned for George Nichols, special prosecutor, to start the examination.

The prosecutor immediately started questioning Purnell regarding his first marriage.

"Isn't it a fact that you did not file a divorce complaint until three years after your marriage to Mary Stollard?" Nichols asked.

"I don't think that is a fact. I think I started it the year I married Mary," Purnell testified. Previously he admitted that he had married "Queen Mary" bigamously.

He said one child was born during his first marriage.

"King Ben testified his failure to talk with his lawyers during the Hansel trial in 1923 was due to belief that the suit was not a 'direct attack upon him.'

John W. Hansel, former member of the colony, collected a judgment of $25,000 against the colony in federal court. During the trial Purnell was charged with debauching girls of the colony. He was in hiding at the time, and did not appear to answer charges which involved Ruth Bamford Reed and Gladys Bamford Rubel, former Shiloh girls.

"When you knew the trial was a direct attack at you for alleged indecencies with young girls, why didn't you come out of hiding and testify in your own defense?" Nichols demanded.

"I don't think it was a direct attack on me," Purnell answered in a trembling whisper.

Purnell admitted he was once sued by an irate husband who charged the "king" with alienating his wife's affections. The wife was a member of the House of David. Purnell failed to recall the amount of the cash settlement.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 16.—"King Ben" Purnell of the House of David had advance information on raids on the cult headquarters while he was in hiding, but it came from an "inner vision" and not from county officers, he testified today in the proceedings. He escaped twice when state troopers raided the colony, "King Ben" said. These raids were in June and October, 1925. It had been charged that bribed county officers tipped off the cult leader.

Purnell, who testified from a cot in the court room, was on the stand about an hour and then was taken back to the House of David colony in an ambulance.

Purnell also said the "inner vision" warned him of the later raid in which he was captured. He did not explain why he did not respond to the warning as he had before.

Purnell said he hid four years because he believed prejudice against him would prevent a fair trial.

SAY CHAPLIN BOUGHT PEACE IN HIS FAMILY

"PEACE" TO CONSTITUTE LEGAL SEPARATION FROM HIS WIFE

REPORTED TO COST $1,000,000,
AND PRECLUDE AIRING
TROUBLES IN COURT

Los Angeles, Aug. 16.—(UP)—The arrival of Charles Chaplin, film comedian, here today was expected to be followed by the announcement he had purchased peace in his family for the sum of one million dollars.

The "Peace" will constitute legal separation from his wife, Lita Gray Chaplin, it was said, and precluded the airing in court of expected sensational divorce proceedings scheduled for Aug. 22.

For the $1,000,000 concession, Chaplin additionally will be permitted to visit and have custody of his children at intervals, it was unofficially reported.

Mrs. Chaplin also will forget the sensational allegations in her suit for divorce and seek separation on a cruelty charge, reports said, and Chaplin will withdraw his counter suit.

While en route here from San Francisco where Chaplin arrived Sunday from New York, the comedian has been in constant conference with his attorneys. It was supposed the reported decision to settle the case out of court was made upon recommendations of his legal counsel.

"KING BEN"RESUMES HIS TESTIMONY*BROUGHT INTO THE ST. JOSEPH
COURT ROOM ON A
STRETCHER*PROSECUTOR QUESTIONS HIM

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 16.—(UP)—Smiling wanly "King Ben" Purnell resumed testimony in the House of David dissolution suit today.

He was brought into court on a stretcher and seemed even weaker than at the other two times he has appeared in court. He said he felt weaker but expected to be able to complete his testimony and motioned for George Nichols, special prosecutor, to start the examination.

The prosecutor immediately started questioning Purnell regarding his first marriage.

"Isn't it a fact that you did not file a divorce complaint until three years after your marriage to Mary Stollard?" Nichols asked.

"I don't think that is a fact. I think I started it the year I married Mary," Purnell testified. Previously he admitted that he had married "Queen Mary" bigamously.

He said one child was born during his first marriage.

"King Ben testified his failure to talk with his lawyers during the Hansel trial in 1923 was due to belief that the suit was not a "direct attack upon him."

John W. Hansel, former member of the colony, collected a judgment of $25,000 against the colony in federal court. During the trial Purnell was charged with debauching girls of the colony. He was in hiding at the time, and did not appear to answer charges which involved Ruth Bamford Reed and Gladys Bamford Rubel, former Shiloh girls.

"When you knew the trial was a direct attack at you for alleged indecencies with young girls, why didn't you come out of hiding and testify in your own defense?" Nichols demanded.

"I don't think it was a direct attack on me," Purnell answered in a trembling whisper.

Purnell admitted he was once sued by an irate husband who charged the "king" with alienating his wife's affections. The wife was a member of the House of David. Purnell failed to recall the amount of the cash settlement.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 16.—"King Ben" Purnell of the House of David had advance information on raids on the cult headquarters while he was in hiding, but it came from an "inner vision" and not from county officers, he testified today in the proceedings. He escaped twice when state troopers raided the colony, "King Ben" said. These raids were in June and October, 1923. It had been charged that bribed county officers tipped off the cult leader.

Purnell, who testified from a cot in the court room, was on the stand about an hour and then was taken back to the House of David colony in an ambulance. Purnell also said the "inner vision" warned him of the later raid in which he was captured. He did not explain why he did not respond to the warning as he had before.

Purnell said he hid four years because he believed prejudice against him would prevent a fair trial.

SAY CHAPLINBOUGHT PEACE
IN HIS FAMILY*"PEACE" TO CONSTITUTE LEGAL SEPARATION FROM
HIS WIFE*REPORTED TO COST $1,000,000,
AND PRECLUDE AIRING
TROUBLES IN COURT

Los Angeles, Aug. 16.—(UP)—The arrival of Charles Chaplin, film comedian, here today was expected to be followed by the announcement he had purchased peace in his family for the sum of one million dollars.

The "Peace" will constitute legal separation from his wife, Lita Gray Chaplin, it was said, and precluded the airing in court of expected sensational divorce proceedings scheduled for Aug. 22.

For the $1,000,000 concession, Chaplin additionally will be permitted to visit and have custody of his children at intervals, it was unofficially reported.

Mrs. Chaplin also will forget the sensational allegations in her suit for divorce and seek separation on a cruelty charge, reports said, and Chaplin will withdraw his counter suit.

While en route here from San Francisco where Chaplin arrived Sunday from New York, the comedian has been in constant conference with his attorneys. It was supposed the reported decision to settle the case out of court was made upon recommendations of his legal counsel.

CITIZENS PROTEST GARAGE LOCATION

County Board Rejects Bids for Construction of Building Next to County Jail

FOUR BIDS RECEIVED

Representative Body Claims That Garage Would Mar Court House Grounds

Acting in accordance with the wishes of the representative body of citizens who appeared in protest of the location of the proposed county highway garage, the County Board of Commissioners Saturday on motion of Commissioners Krueger and A. Frank Lowey rejected all bids submitted.

Bids by four contractors were submitted, bid number one being for the tearing down of the old court house and the using of whatever material available in the construction of the new garage while bid number two was for the construction of the garage with new material.

The bids submitted follow:
W. T. Carlson, Brainerd, bid No. 1, $12,126.85; bid No. 2, $11,497.45.
J. P. Eggerling, Brainerd, bid No. 1, $11,700; bid No. 2, $11,200.
C. B. Rowley, Brainerd, bid No. 1, $11,461.98; bid No. 2, $9,056.55.
Erick A. Olson, Ironton, bid No. 2, $9,650.50.

The protest came from the committee of citizens following the opening of the bids.

Objection was raised in that the construction of a garage at the west side of the county jail on Laurel street would tend to mar the beauty of the court house grounds.

Suggestions were made by the members of the committee that a suitable location could be found west of the D. M. Clark and Patch warehouses in the southeast corner of Block 65, city of Brainerd.

The board however left the matter on the table for future consideration, as to the erection of a garage.

The bids submitted show that it would cost the county more to raze the old court house and use the material from it in the construction of the garage than it would to build a garage with new material complete.

MISS GLADYS ROY WALKS INTO WHIRLING PRO-
PELLOR

TOWN

Youngstown, O., Aug. 16.—(UP)—Miss Gladys Roy, 27, Minneapolis stunt flier, died Monday from injuries received when she walked into the whirling propeller of an airplane.

Miss Roy was posing with "Miss Ohio" (Evelyn Wilgus) for a picture. She insisted on having the plane's propeller running so that the blades would not appear in the photograph. The picture was snapped and the young aviatrix forgetting the whirling blades, stepped out of the pilot's seat into them.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 16.—(UP)—The death of Gladys Roy in an airplane accident at Youngstown, O., Monday was today mourned in aviation circles of Minnesota as well as by thousands who witnessed her stunt flying at various festivities in this section of the country.

The young aviatrix was the wife of Arthur J. Roy and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Smith, of Minneapolis.

Gladys Roy's first airplane ride was taken when she had just completed her course at high school here. She went up with her brother, Lieut. Chadwick Smith or Robbinsdale airport, near here.

She made a parachute jump from the wing of her brother's plane on her second flight. Thereafter she became a professional stunt flier.

The aviatrix was injured in a parachute jumping exhibition at the Minnesota state fair last year. She dislocated her hip when landing.

MINNESOTA
FAIR

St. Paul, Aug. 15.—(UP)—The first large aircraft show in the country is planned for the Minnesota State Fair to be held here next month, the management announced here today.

Thomas H. Canfield, secretary of the fair board, stated that a large circus tent will be erected on Machinery Hill to house the airships. It will be one of the outstanding features of the 1927 state fair, Sept. 3 to 10 inclusive.

The various types of planes and equipment will be on display for the first time in the history of state fairs.

The exhibition will include monoplanes, biplanes, seaplanes and all other types known to aviation as well as engines, accessories and electrical equipment.

Negotiations have been carried on by the fair management for weeks with leading manufacturers of aircraft in the United States, the war navy and commerce departments at Washington and with local aviation experts.

The show will be managed by M. Ray Miller, commander of the 109th aero squadron, Minnesota national guard. The display will be guarded continually by a detail of enlisted aides.

FEDERATION POLITICS IS CHIEF TOPIC

International Falls, Minn., Aug. 16.—(UP)—With federation politics the chief topic of convention discussion delegates and families attending the 45th annual meeting of the Minnesota Federation of Labor today turned attention to a big barbecue at Fort Francis, just across the Canadian border.

Following a brief business session this forenoon the visitors started moving into the Canadian city for the big entertainment feature.

Since the start of the convention Monday the delegates have been warming up to an expected fight when the election of officers takes place Wednesday.

There is a strong faction in favor of ousting E. G. Hall of Minneapolis, who has been president of the state body for many years. However, there are many who support Hall and believe he will be retained.

Work of convention business is progressing rapidly with little difficulty encountered in discussion of reports submitted by various committees.

Regular opening session activities prevailed at the meeting Monday. Speakers included Rev. Austin Partridge of Hibbing who extended greetings on behalf of the Minnesota department, American Legion; V. S. Alone of the Northern Co-operative league of Canada; Charles Cullen, Newark, N. J., representing the United Hatters' group and E. W. A. Odell, representative of the Boot and Shoe Workers union.

In the afternoon the plant of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Co. was inspected.

A huge mass meeting was held at the Grand theater last night and was addressed by Frank W. Murphy, Wheaton, and John P. Burke, president of the Pulp and Sulphite International union. A dance at the Arena rink in Fort Francis followed.

The convention will close Wednesday following election of officers and selection of a site for the 1928 convention.

FAIR

St. Paul, Aug. 15.—(UP)—The first large aircraft show in the country is planned for the Minnesota State Fair to be held here next month, the management announced here today.

Thomas H. Canfield, secretary of the fair board, stated that a large circus tent will be erected on Macinery Hill to house the airships. It will be one of the outstanding features of the 1927 state fair, Sept. 3 to 10 inclusive.

The various types of planes and equipment will be on display for the first time in the history of state fairs.

The exhibition will include monoplanes, biplanes, seaplanes and all other types known to aviation as well as engines, accessories and electrical equipment.

Negotiations have been carried on by the fair management for weeks with leading manufacturers of aircraft in the United States, the war navy and commerce departments at Washington and with local aviation experts.

The show will be managed by M. Ray Miller, commander of the 109th aero squadron, Minnesota national guard. The display will be guarded continually by a detail of enlisted aides.

FEDERATION POLITICS IS CHIEF TOPIC

International Falls, Minn., Aug. 16.—(UP)—With federation politics the chief topic of convention discussion delegates and families attending the 45th annual meeting of the Minnesota Federation of Labor today turned attention to a big barbecue at Fort Francis, just across the Canadian border.

Following a brief business session this forenoon the visitors started moving into the Canadian city for the big entertainment feature.
Since the start of the convention Monday the delegates have been warming up to an expected fight when the election of officers takes place Wednesday.

There is a strong faction in favor of ousting E. G. Hall of Minneapolis, who has been president of the state body for many years. However, there are many who support Hall and believe he will be retained.

Work of convention business is progressing rapidly with little difficulty encountered in discussion of reports submitted by various committees.

Regular opening session activities prevailed at the meeting Monday. Speakers included Rev. Austin Partridge of Hibbing who extended greetings on behalf of the Minnesota department, American Legion; V. S. Alone of the Northern Co-operative league of Canada; Charles Cullen, Newark, N. J., representing the United Hatters' group and E. W. A. Odell, representative of the Boot and Shoe Workers union.

In the afternoon the plant of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Co. was inspected.

A huge mass meeting was held at the Grand theater last night and was addressed by Frank W. Murphy, Wheaton, and John P. Burke, president of the Pulp and Sulphite International union. A dance at the Arena rink in Fort Francis followed.

The convention will close Wednesday following election of officers and selection of a site for the 1928 convention.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically
